

Mr. Robert Sandage

Theatre Class

Mr. Sandage has experience in acting. He performed not only in his schools, but also worked with the Main Street Theatre Youth program. Majored in Creative Writing, Mr. Sandage has long aspired to teach others the joy of acting and performing. He will give the students lessons on how to perform roles as perfectly as masters. The semester will conclude with an exhibition of the students performing abilities, showing off their newly acquired talents.

What the students will learn:

- Acting: Reading lines and performing them out loud.
- Emotion: Reciting their lines as if they were speaking from their hearts.
- Pacing and Timing: Performing the part naturally, instead of just reading the lines.
- Expressions and Gestures: Using your face and hands to match the emotions and situations.
- Recognition: Knowing how to perform in comedy situations and drama situations.
- Improv: Learning how to quickly make up lines from your head if necessary.
- Language: understanding the language of older works so as to perform them correctly.

Who may enroll the class:
3rd graders and older.
